August 8, 2011 – Adam Systems, a leading provider of Dealer Management Solutions to automotive and powersports retailers throughout the US and the Caribbean Basin, is happy to introduce a new managed backup offering to their customers.

Adam Systems has developed a solution to ensure customers can easily and securely preserve their Adam Systems DMS data. The Adam Managed Backup solution backs up the Adam DMS data nightly to a secure offsite data center. The data is secure and encrypted before leaving the customer's network, and it remains encrypted while being stored. Customer DMS data is only decrypted once it has been restored to their network.

The Adam Managed Backup covers the setup, monitoring, and management of daily DMS data backup including:

- daily monitoring of the DMS backup
- daily backup job status emails to the customer
- one week's worth of rotating daily DMS backups
- automatic nightly index and local backup of all Adam DMS modules

“We wanted to take the trouble and worry out of getting good daily backups offsite. Our customers want to focus on their business not their backups. We've developed a solution that will allow them to get backups offsite daily with no hassles. The best part is that the time savings alone easily pays for the solution” – John Cowan, CIO
